NUCLEAR-POWERED . . . Spaceships will open solar system to efficient exploration and exploitation, said Max W. Hunter, Douglas Aircraft company's assistant chief engineer - space systems. High thrust nuclear propulsion, such as proposed for single-stage spaceship shown in this artist's drawing of a lunar mission is essential to space leadership and would result in relatively cheap space travel.

Importance of Hearing Tests for School Children Told by Gilbert

By ROY O. GILBERT, M.D. County Health Officer

The month of May has been proclaimed by the President of the United States as Better Hearing Month.

It is true that most people seem to take good hearing for granted. It is also true that people are more likely to put off seeking medical attention for ear troubles than for other physical ailments. Yet hearing is second only to sight in its importance to safety, success, and the satisfaction to be obtained in daily living.

HEARING DEFECTS which develop in adult life are largely the personal problems of the individuals affected. There is little that the community can do to help these people except to publicize the fact that prompt medical attention can many times prevent a serious loss of hearing.

However, the hearing defects of infants and children of school age constitute, in some degree at last, a problem which deserves attention on a community-wide basis.

MOST SCHOOL systems have recognized their responsibility in testing for hearing defects of school children, and they have also accepted the responsibility for referring such cases to proper medical authorities. Parents of school children can, in many instances, do much more than they are doing at present. Proper care of children during and after respiratory illnesses or childhood diseases can do much in preventing ear trouble. Immunization against childhood diseases is, of course, very important.

this fact, the Hearing Center of Metropolitan Los Angeles, a Community Chest sponsored agency, has in the last decade tested the hearing of more than 100,000 preschool children. This number, is, of course, a small fraction of the total number of preschoolers. The Los Angeles County Health Department, together with a number of civic organizations, has for the past two years assisted the Hearing Center in setting up testing programs in several local communities. It is hoped that this program will eventually spread to all parts of Los Angeles County.

PARENTS SHOULD be alert to some of the more common signs of possible hearing difficulty in children, such as:

1. Persistent inattention and frequent mistakes in carrying out instructions.
2. Poor speech mispronunciation of common words.
3. Habitual failure to respond when spoken to.
4. Tired expression before the day is half over.
5. Persistent truancy from school, or misbehavior.
6. Appearance of stupidity.
7. A habit of cocking the head sideways, toward sounds.

MANY CONDITIONS which cause or contribute to hearing loss yield readily to treatment in their early stages. Others can be kept from getting worse. Even when deafness has already developed, improvement may be possible through treatment or surgery by an ear specialist.

Anyone who is interested may obtain a free booklet on the subject of hearing by writing to the Los Angeles County Health Department, Division of Public Health Education, 241 N. Figueroa St., Los Angeles 12, Calif.

Scouts to Sell 50-Star Flags As Good Turn

Patriotism and Boy Scouts are practically synonymous, so it's not surprising to find the 50,000 Scouts of the Los Angeles Area Council undertaking a major patriotic public service during Scouting's 50th anniversary in America.

Beginning Monday, May 16, Scouts will offer for sale a new, 50-star flag to homeowners and businesses.

The Scout service doesn't end with the purchase of a flag . . . if requested, Scouts in some areas will attach the pole brackets to the house for the owner.

Additionally, each person buying a new flag from a Scout will receive an official illustrated folder, teaching proper flag care, including folding, displaying, and how to retire an outdated or worn out flag.

"This patriotic Good Turn will start May 16, so that every home in Los Angeles will be able to fly the American flag on the three great holidays coming up — Memorial Day, May 30; Flag Day, June 14; Independence Day, July 4," according to Fred J. Tabery, volunteer chairman of the flag sale.

Ten thousand flags are being flown to Los Angeles each week in May and June to meet the anticipated need for 100,000 flags.

Sale of the flags will continue through July 4.

Annual Dance Festival Planned for Tomorrow

The annual Crenshaw Elementary School May Dance Festival will be held at the school playground Friday, at 10:30 a.m., according to Principal Earl Eckert.
